

HEALTHY, RIPE RIESLING GRAPES

LIMESTONE

WACHENHEIMER BELZ VINEYARD

VILLA WOLF WINERY, WACHENHEIM / PFALZ

The Wine

This Monopole vineyard of Villa Wolf is one of the finest in Wachenheim. Belz is known for its chalky, shell limestone soil. This soil – unique in this area – produces wines with captivating, flowery aromas and full-bodied structure.

Riesling is a highly aromatic and fruity grape variety. It has been regarded as the greatest white wine grape for hundreds of years. Throughout history, Riesling has been revered for its vibrant personality, its pure fruit flavors, its astonishing diversity of styles, its ability to show you where it was grown, its versatility with food, and its ability to age for decades.

Winery: Villa Wolf

Name: Wachenheimer Belz Riesling Dry

Quality level: QbA

Grape variety: Riesling

Vineyard: Wachenheimer Belz (monopole vineyard)

Soil Type: Limestone

Harvest method: Selective hand-harvest, healthy grapes

Region: Pfalz

From the press / awards:

[91] James Suckling - Stuart Pigott, 2016 vintage
Cool and crisp with cassis and white-flower aromas. This is a very attractive and rather elegant dry Pfalz riesling with a long, quite mineral finish. Drink or hold. Screw cap closure.

[91] Wine Enthusiast, 2012 vintage —Editors' Choice—
Stony mineral notes accent fragrant blossom and grapefruit notes on this dry, elegant Riesling. The palate is lean and steely, with a distinct line of struck steel and lime, but it's also buoyantly fruity with notes of luscious white peach and honey. A dramatic wine with a long, lingering mineral finish. December 2014